MUJIBNAGAR GOVERNMENT

- As the Pakistan military force started genocide on March 25, 1971, the people of East Pakistan posed resistance against them initially without any preparation and organisational movement.
- In order to administer the liberation war efficiently, the first provisional government of Bangladesh was formed on April 10.
- The formal swearing in ceremony was held on April 17 at Vaidynathtala in Meherpur district. This government was headed by Bangabandhu.
- The village Vaidynathtala was named Mujibnagar after his name and the provisional government also came to be popularly termed as Mujibnagar government.
- However, the Pakistan Air Force bombed Mujibnagar and took control of Meherpur within two hours of the formation of this government. The headquarters of Mujibnagar was shifted to 8 Theatre Road in Kolkata.
- The main objective of the government was to lead the war of liberation and earn worldwide support in favour of Bangladesh.

EAST PAKISTAN CENTRAL PEACE COMMITTEE

- Pakistani government established the "East Pakistan Central Peace Committee" (Shanti Bahini) by the member of Jamaat-E-Islami.
- Ghulam Azam was the Chief of Shanti Committee.
- One of the main tasks of the Rajakar groups was to generate lists of the details of freedom fighters.

EAST PAKISTAN CENTRAL PEACE COMMITTEE

- The Jamaat-E-Islami also organized their own combatant groups such as the Al-Badar and Al-Shams.
- Al-Badar, which was mainly created by the student wing of the Jamaat-E-Islami in East-Pakistan, was specifically involved in killing "the intellectual people" such as teachers, scholars and social activists.

INTERNATIONAL RESPONSE

 At the international level, the United States of America and the People's Republic of China considered the crisis as an internal affair of Pakistan. But actually, they stood with Pakistan.

INTERNATIONAL RESPONSE

- India, Soviet Union and her allies, and general masses in Japan, and Western countries stood in solidarity with Bangladesh.
- In order to gain strategic advantage vis-a-vis Sino-US-Pakistan axis, Indo-Soviet Friendship Treaty was signed on 9 August 1971. It provided a new dimension to the War of Liberation.

GUERRILLA

Having realised that the West Pakistan army could not be defeated by conventional warfare method, it was decided to create large guerrilla forces all over the country. All Sector commanders were accordingly ordered to recruit, train and induct guerillas inside the country.

The Mukti Bahini started coordinating its attacks from mid April 1971. Guerrilla attacks were coordinated with different types of tactics, such as sabotage, sudden ambushes, hit-and-run attacks. They relied on local villagers for food, shelter, and intelligence.

JOINT FORCES

• The joint command of the Mukti Bahini and the Indian army was underway from November 1971. Lieutenant General Jagjit Singh Aurora, Commander, Eastern Command of Indian Army, became the commander of the joint forces (Mitro Bahini).

 However, the joint command of the Mukti Bahini and the Indian Army, started operation from the evening of 3 December, when the Pakistan Air Force bombed Amritsar, Sreenagar and the Kashmir valley.

SURRENDER

• The surrender ceremony took place at the Ramna Race Course in Dacca, East Pakistan (now Bangladesh), on 16 December 1971: A. A. K. Niazi of the Pakistan Army formally surrendered to Jagjit Singh Aurora, an Indian Army officer and joint commander of the Bangladesh Forces.

THE ROLE OF STUDENTS

 Organizing protests and demonstrations: Students organized protests and demonstrations against the oppressive Pakistani regime. These protests often turned violent, and the students faced severe repression from the Pakistani army.

• Providing intelligence: Students provided crucial intelligence to the Bangladeshi resistance forces, which helped them plan their attacks and operations.

THE ROLE OF STUDENTS

- Serving as volunteers: Many students served as volunteers in the resistance forces. They provided medical aid, cooked food for the soldiers, and carried out other tasks to support the war effort.
- Fighting on the front lines: Many students joined the resistance forces and fought on the front lines. They showed remarkable bravery and courage in the face of overwhelming odds.
- Raising awareness: Students played a vital role in raising awareness about the war in the international community. They organized rallies and protests in different countries to draw attention to the plight of the Bangladeshi people.

THE ROLE OF WOMEN

- Lots of women took part in the war and were part of different guerilla operations.
- Women as doctor. For example, Dr Captain (Rtd.) Sitara Begum, who was honoured with the 'Bir Protik' award for her contribution.
- Providing information
- Providing shelter.

CONSTITUTION OF BANGLADESH

- The Constitution is the supreme document of a state. The administration of a country is run by its constitution.
- The people of Bangladesh achieved this document through a long struggle, sacrifice and blood.
- After their independence in 1947, India took two years and Pakistan took nine years to write their constitutions. Bangabandhu's government gave the nation an outstanding constitution in only nine months.
- The government proclaimed 'Constituent Assembly Order' on March 23, 1972, with a view to drafting the constitution of Bangladesh.

CONSTITUTION OF BANGLADESH

- The Constitution of 1972 was a written document drafted both in Bangla and English. Bangla was accepted as the original language. This Constitution has one Preamble, 11 parts, 153 Articles and 4 Schedules.
- The Constitution is very well written based on humanitarian grounds and has the reflection of hope and aspirations of a newly born country.
- For example, The Constitution of Bangladesh states:

"Further pledging that it shall be a fundamental aim of the State to realise through the democratic process a socialist society, free from exploitation — a society in which the rule of law, fundamental human rights and freedom, equality and justice, political, economic and social, will be secured for all citizens."

CONSTITUTION OF BANGLADESH

- The constitution's principles included nationalism, democracy, socialism, and secularism.
- The constitution also established a limited government, where every authority's power was limited by the constitution.
- The constitution guaranteed fundamental human rights, freedom of movement, freedom of religion, and freedom of association.
- In 2011, Article 23A was added to the Constitution:

Article 23A – Protects and develops the unique culture and traditions of minor races, ethnic sects, tribes, and communities
